Cohort Default Rate (CDR)

Bel-Rea's 2017 3-Year Cohort Default Rate is 2.6%, which is well below the following national averages:

- 2-3 year proprietary schools (same type of program as Bel-Rea): 17.5%
- 2-3 year public schools: 18.3%
- 2-3 year private schools: 17.6%
- All schools: 11.5%

What is "cohort"?: In regards to CDR, a cohort is a 3 year group of student loan borrowers in repayment on what they borrowed from Federal Financial Aid to attend a specific school.

What is "default"?: If individuals default on their student loans, it means they failed to repay the money borrowed to attend school.

What is "CDR"?: "The cohort default rate, or CDR, is one measure of how well a school prepares its students for student loan repayment. Low CDRs indicated that schools are counseling their students to borrow as needed, stay aware of their repayment obligations, and understand the consequences of default." -

www.tgslc.org

In other words, the lower the CDR percentage, the better!
